

Fire Protection Occupational licences

The QBCC's Fire Protection Occupational licence was introduced to ensure Queensland has the highest standards of building fire safety and to provide an employee or subcontractor with a clear career path to becoming a contractor in the Queensland building industry.

If you already hold an existing QBCC licence in the same class (either Contractor or Nominee Supervisor) you are NOT required to obtain a Fire Protection Occupational licence. You are only required to obtain a Fire Protection Occupational licence if you intend to carry out fire protection work for a licensed fire protection contractor either as an employee or a subcontractor. A fire protection occupational licence holder cannot contract with the public or subcontract to a builder to carry out building work or fire protection work and cannot be a nominee for a company.

What licence is required?

One of the following licences must be held to personally carry out or supervise fire protection work:

- A fire protection occupational licence issued under the QBCC Act authorising the licensee to personally carry out the work;
- A contractor's licence issued under the QBCC Act authorising the licensee to personally carry out the work; or
- A licence, registration or authorisation under an Act, other than the QBCC Act, authorising the person to personally supervise or carry out the work (for example, an occupational licence issued under the Plumbing and Drainage Act 2002).

The following table shows what work can be undertaken by QBCC's four types of licence.

Type	Supervise building work	Nominee for a company	Enter into contracts for building work
Contractor	✓	✓	✓
Nominee Supervisor	✓	✓
Fire Occupational	✓		Only able to contract to another licensed contractor who is licensed in the same fire class.
Site Supervisor	✓

When you apply for a Fire Protection Occupational licence you must nominate which licence classes you are applying for - i.e. Fire Hydrants and Hose Reels; Fire Detection, Alarm and Warning Systems etc.

NOTE: Fire protection apprentices, trainees and students are not required to hold this licence.

How to obtain a Fire Protection Occupational licence

To apply for a Fire Protection Occupational licence you must provide the following:

- a completed copy of this application form
- payment of the application fee
- proof of identity
- meet the relevant technical qualification requirement (refer to QBCC's website).

How can I change my Fire Protection Occupational licence to a Nominee Supervisor or Contractor licence?

To apply for a nominee supervisor or contractor licence you must provide the following:

- A completed Individual Application form – NOT THIS FORM
- Payment of the application fee
- A copy of the relevant qualifications for the class
- Experience and references.

COMPLETING THIS FORM

- Use BLACK pen only
- Print clearly in BLOCK LETTERS
- DO NOT use correction fluid — any amendments should be crossed out and initialled

You are not able to apply for a licence if you are not a citizen, permanent resident or do not have a current Australian work visa.
